

Question or data required:

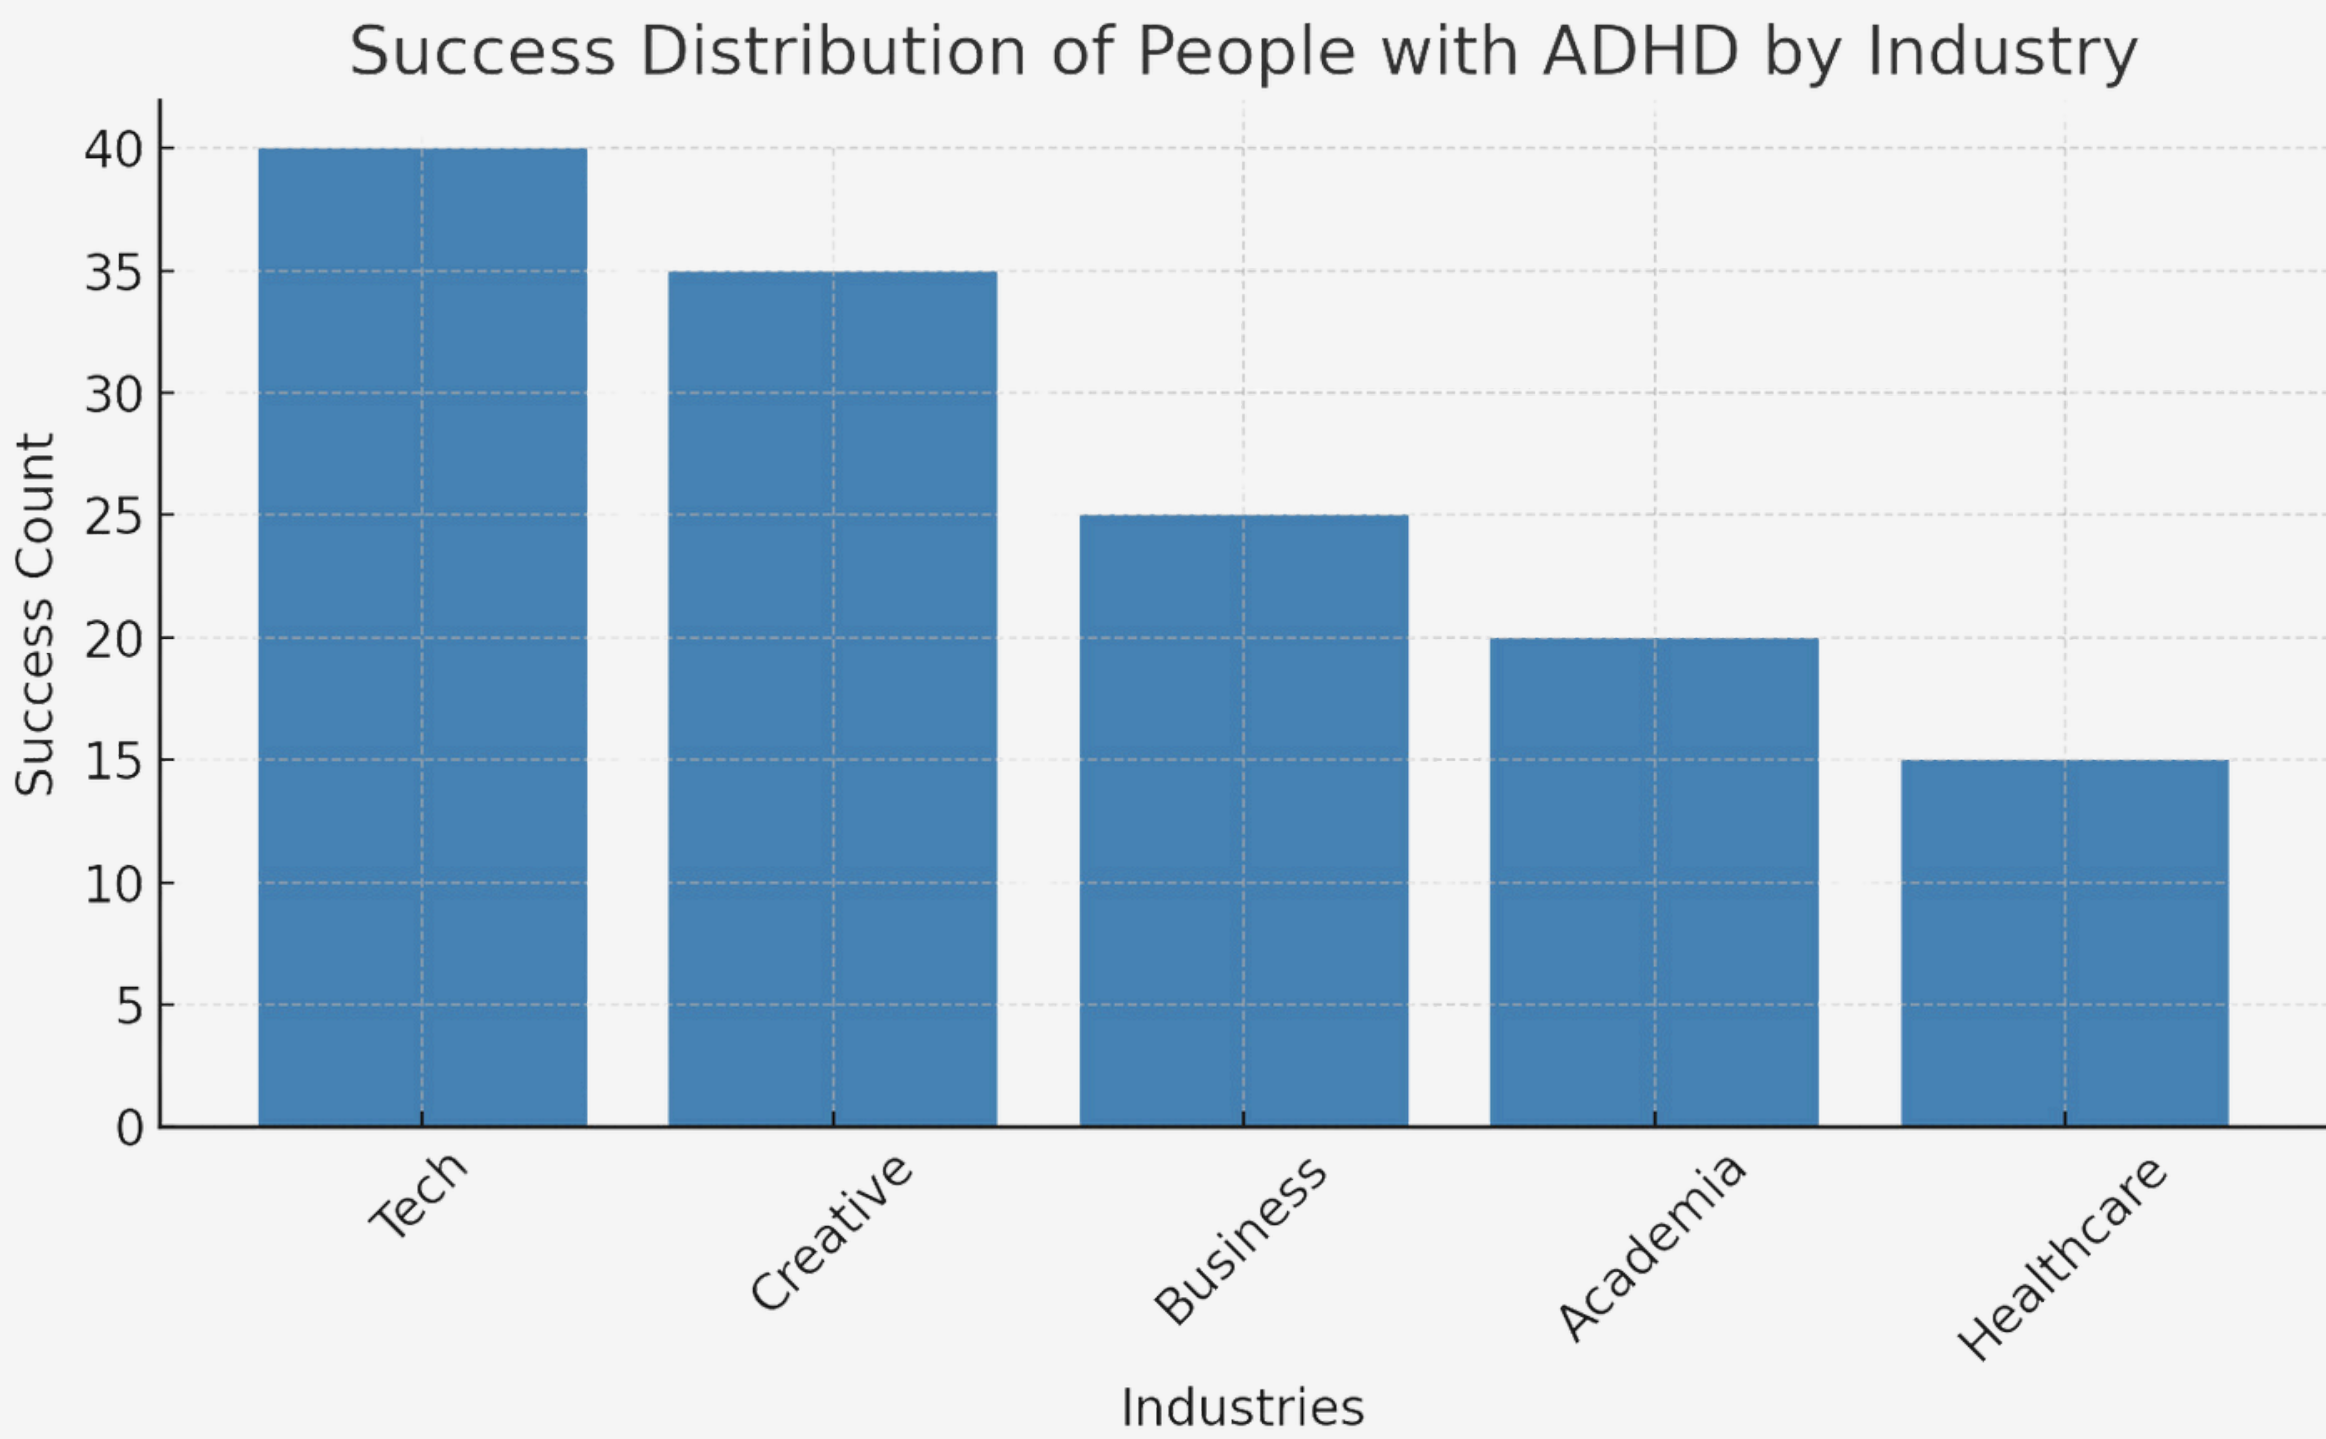

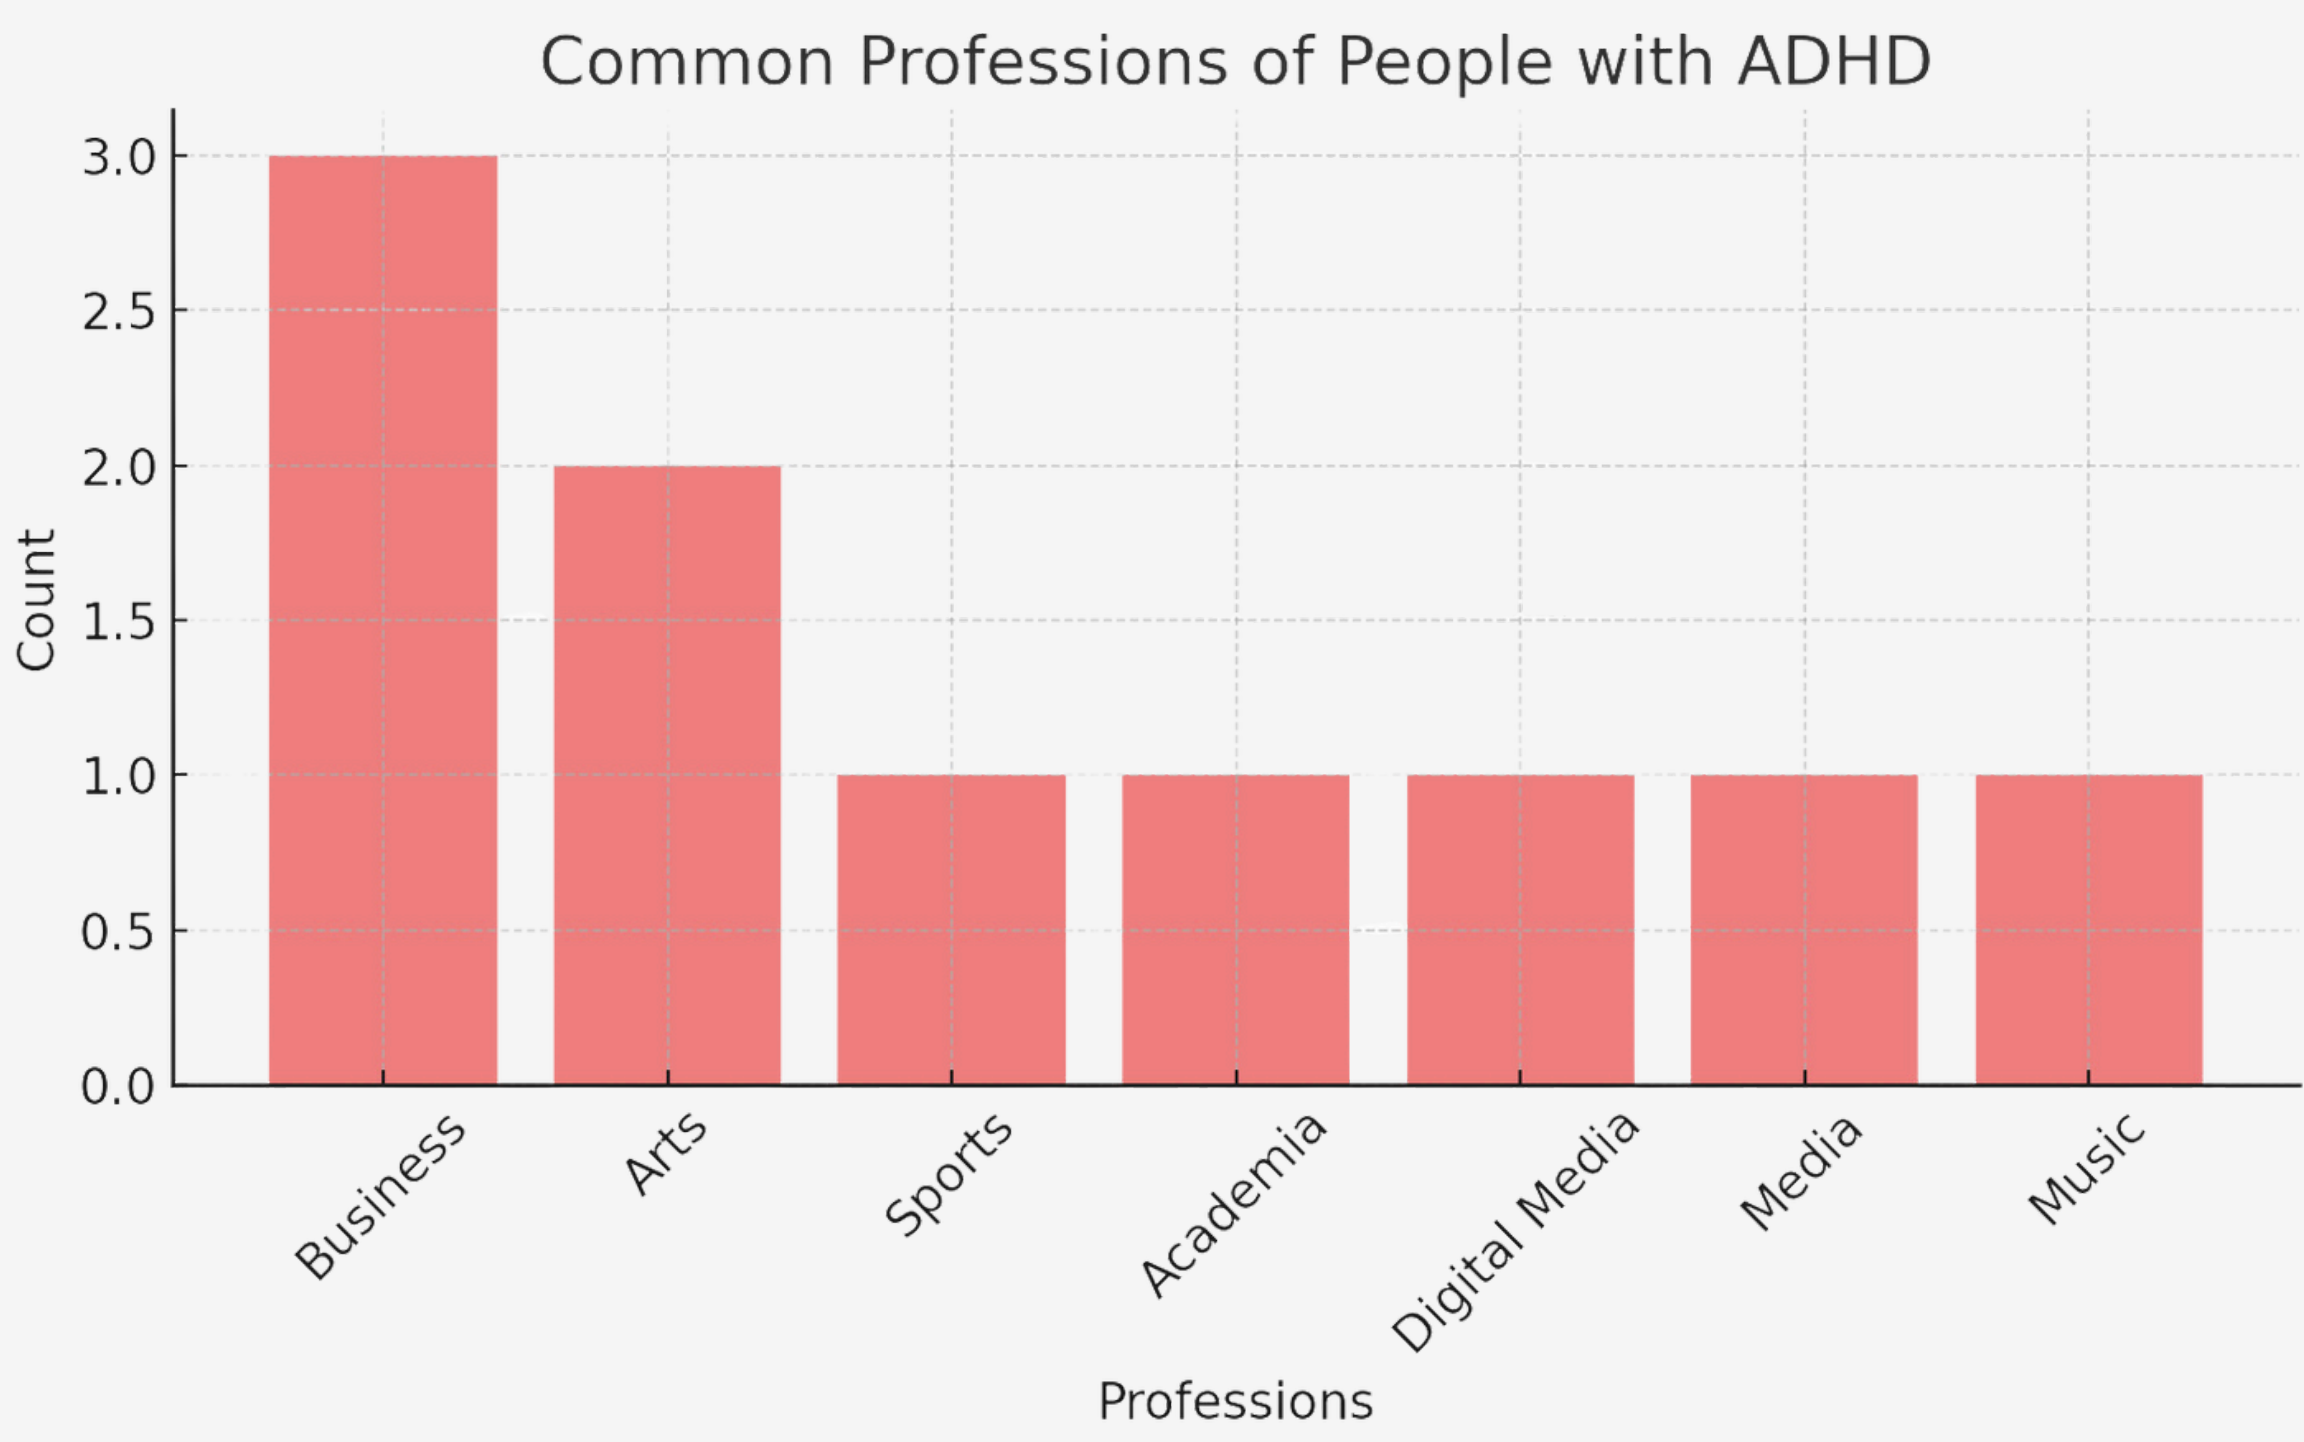

"I'm currently offering ADHD coaching services for corporate groups and want to gain deeper insights into which industries my clients are primarily coming from, so I can identify where to focus my efforts. I'm looking to understand which sectors could benefit most from my services and help me define my niche. Could you recommend the best strategies or tools to analyse this and determine where I should start building a strong, targeted community around ADHD support in the corporate world?"
